

Author to Speak at Presbyterian Church

Mrs. Grace Livingston Hill to Be Heard Sunday Evening

IS A POPULAR WRITER

Mrs. Grace Livingston Hill, author of many popular romantic novels, will be the speaker at the Narberth Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening at 7:45. The service will be in charge of the Woman's Bible Class.

Mrs. Hill's development as a story teller goes back to her childhood when, as a little girl, her mother told her a story every night before going to bed. As she grew older she acquired the habit of thinking out a story for herself before going to sleep. Her first story to be published was written at the tender age of ten years.

During her early years she was surrounded by influences conducive to writing. Her mother was Marcia Macdonald, the author of beautiful romances, and her mother's sister was Mrs. Alden, better known to her public as "Pansy." Her father was the Rev. Charles M. Livingston, a Presbyterian minister and a frequent contributor to religious periodicals. In later years she married the Rev. T. G. F. Hill, a Presbyterian minister of ability and prominence.

There is a buoyant spirit about Mrs. Hill's life and books which has proved an inspiration to many.

A musical program, including selections by a woman's chorus and a solo by Mrs. Peter Stam, has also been arranged for the service. All are cordially invited to attend.

Cook's Garage Robbed

Thieves, forcing a rear window of C. P. Cook's garage on Narberth Avenue and the Pennsylvania Railroad, Narberth, Sunday morning at 2:30 o'clock stole $9.50 from the cash register. The robbery was discovered and reported to the Lower Merion police when the establishment was opened Monday morning.

Lou 'Doing Nicely'

Louis Alonzo Young, of Grove Place, Narberth, and former head coach of the University of Pennsylvania football team, was operated on for appendicitis on Monday at the Chestnut Hill Hospital. He was reported yesterday as "doing nicely."

Old Brooms Wanted

Housewives, attention! Here is a good use that your old brooms that are no longer serviceable can be put to. The Narberth Fire Company needs a new supply of old brooms which it uses in fighting field fires. So if you have some around the house, or even one, call the Fire House and they will gladly be called for.

The 'Lowdown' on Two of the Leading Characters in Community Club Play

Mrs. Ellsworth Clark, who will take the part of Ethel in "The Whole Town's Talking," the farce to be given by the Dramatic Committee of the Woman's Community Club of Narberth on Friday, March 13, is a young woman of considerable experience in amateur productions.

When a resident of Westville, N. J., she participated in many performances of its dramatic society. Later, at Stone Harbor, she took part and directed plays by the alumni of Middle Township High School.

Mrs. Clark, who has been a resident of Narberth for two years and a half, is the program chairman of the Junior Community Club. She is a former president of the Junior Woman's Club of Stone Harbor.

Arthur Landis Cooke, who plays the part of Chester Binney in the play, has been a resident of the Borough for more than a dozen years. He was overseas with the A. E. F. during the war, and is a member of the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, and is its immediate past commander.

before that unit of the Borough school system was transferred to Lower Merion, Art also attended Haverford School, where he gained quite a reputation in football.

He was engaged in the plastering business with his father-in-law, Edward S. Haws, for seven years, and is now in the same business for himself. He took part in the last play given by the Community Club.

Tells of Tree Enemies

A talk, illustrated by lantern slides and describing the many kinds of insects and moths which attack shade trees, was presented Monday night to the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club.

The speaker, Dr. E. P. Felt, of Stamford, Conn., gave a vivid picture of the battle man must wage against his tiny enemies in order that trees may survive. The effects of insect attacks were shown, together with photos of the various kinds of insects, caterpillars, galls and scales which take terrific toll of trees.

Community Service Passes 'Acid' Test

Bad Weather Fails to Keep Down Attendance On Sunday Night.

TOLERANCE WAS THEME

More than 400 people went out in a pouring rain last Sunday evening leaving comfortable homes, firesides, radios and other indoor attractions, in order to attend the community service in the Methodist Church. Ever since that night those people have been telling their friends and acquaintances whom they met on trains, in markets and at the library what a remarkably fine service it was and how stimulating and interesting was the address by Rabbi William Fineshriber, of the Keneseth Israel Synagogue in Philadelphia.

The inclement weather came along just at the right time to give the community service idea the acid test which was, "Would the people of a suburban community like Narberth come out to attend a Sunday evening service which promised greater interest and stimulus than any of the individual Sunday evening gatherings in that neighborhood were likely to provide?" The attendance and the collection both answered that question with an undeniable affirmative. These community

Open Meeting of Mulieres to Be Held on Monday

At 8 o'clock on Monday evening the Mulieres of the Narberth Fire Company are opening their meeting to the public. There will be moving pictures presented by the educational department of the Bell Telephone Company. Tristram B. du Marais, president of the Narberth Fire Company, will give a brief talk about the company.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Mulieres held at the home of Mrs. Eberhardt Muller, on Essex Avenue, Wednesday morning, plans were made for a card party to be held soon, the annual Firemen's Supper April 16, and for a speaker at the regular meeting of the Mulieres on April 13.

The Sub-Junior Branch of the Woman's Community Club of Narberth will be the guests of the Llanerch Sub-Junior Club on Monday evening, March 16. All those who expect to attend are requested to meet at the Narberth railroad station in time to make the 7:32 train.

In the Theater

Philadelphia is having the rare experience—for this year at least—of having five worth while plays running. "The Silent Witness" is a mystery melodrama which is pleasing at the Walnut; "Strictly Dishonorable" continues to be popular and to draw large audiences at the Broad; "Street Scene" pleases some and doesn't please others at the Forrest; "Subway Express" is a mystery thriller which has been so popular that it has remained more than its expected stay at the Garrick, and the popular "My Maryland," with an excellent cast, delights many at the Shubert.

Not a great deal can be said for the revival of the erstwhile popular "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," at the Lyric. The first night audience was far from approving. Melodramas don't seem to win approval in Philadelphia.

Three plays will be given tonight and tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Bryn Mawr Fire Company, to aid the Unemployment Fund of the Main Line Federation of Churches. "Mr. Bob," by Rachel E. Baker; "The Artist," by A. A. Milne, and "About Face," by Phoebe Hoffman.

Music

The choir of St. Paul's Church, Overbrook, will sing on Monday afternoon at Moyamensing Prison. The choir is under the leadership of Henry Gordon Thunder.

Miss Laura Williams will give a recital of Arab songs on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock at the studio of Miss Mary Carroll Rolin and Miss Dorothea R. Symington, at 33 Rittenhouse Place, Ardmore. Miss Williams spent several years in Tunis and on the African coast where she studied Arab folk songs and music. Miss Symington, who is a graduate of the Denishawn School of Dancing in New York, will give several Oriental dance numbers.

Miss Rolin will act as accompanist and will play several piano selections.

Harry Wilson, Wayne pianist, will play compositions of Bach, Tansig, Chopin and Moszkowski at his appearance on March 10 in the ballroom of the Bellevue-Stratford. Mr. Wilson is an exceptionally talented pianist, having a fine tone, brilliant technique and scholarly interpretative abilities. His playing has been received with great enthusiasm in his many recitals. Cards of admission to this concert may be had from Mr. Wilson.

Narberth Theatre News

Joe E. Brown is "Going Wild" in a comedy at the Narberth Theatre this week-end; interesting short subjects accompany the feature.

"Paid," Joan Crawford's picture playing at Narberth next Monday and Tuesday, is adapted from the stage melodrama, "Within the Law"; it's better than some of the vehicles the talented dancing actress has had to put up with recently.

If you like worth-while pictures and authentic English scenes and accents you'll like "Old English," in which George Arliss returns to the borough playhouse next Wednesday and Thursday. The theatre management liked the talking cinema version of the stage success so much last time it played here, that they've taken a chance on the public. It's recommended as one of the season's best . . . not to be enjoyed by children, not a fast and funny musical comedy . . . just a genuine bit of acting by one of the stage's greatest . . . the joyous end of the life of a very human and very old Englishman.

Coming next to Narberth are "Morocco," "Amos and Andy," "Little Caesar," "Tom Sawyer" and "The Bat Whispers."

"Big Money" has Eddie Quinlan, youngest screen star of marked ability, in its cast at the Egyptian next Monday and Tuesday.

Attraction extraordinary is "Tom Sawyer," coming to Cynwyd Wednesday and Thursday. One of Mark Twain's masterpieces, a best-selling novel in many languages throughout the world, the story has been sympathetically adapted for the screen, and is winning acclaim wherever shown. Recommended for the entire family, ages 6 to 86. In the cast are the inimitable Mitzie Green, and Jackie Coogan, whose first screen appearance was with Charlie Chaplin as "The Kid," and who now has attained young manhood and shows very satisfactory ability as "Tom Sawyer."

Of Will Rogers' role in "Lightnin'," which is due at the Egyptian next Friday and Saturday, there need nothing be said save that America's humorist gives a superlative performance in the screen version of a humorous stage hit.

Crooks Closes Concert Season at Ardmore

With the handsome and smiling Richard Crooks as drawing card music lovers of the Main Line—and many of their neighbors from Germantown, heard the final concert Tuesday night of the Main Line Community Concerts Association. The attendance was the largest of the season.

The famous American tenor held his audience from the first note by the artistry of his singing and the charm of his personality. The program, a well-balanced one, was divided into four groups. The first consisted of three Handel excerpts; the second of songs by Brahms and Strauss; the third of operatic arias, and the final group of modern songs of a popular character.

In the Handel group were Sei mia gioia, from "Parthenope," Alma mia from "Foridante" and Dii ad Irene from "Atalanta"—the latter sung in English. As an encore he sang "Where Ere You Are."

The Brahms songs were "Ständchen," "Feldensamkeit" and "Sehnsucht," all three of which brought out Mr. Crook's wonderful voice control and richness of phrasing. "Freundliche Vision" and "Zuignung" of Strauss completed the group. As with most of Strauss' songs, these two numbers require a dramatic quality most pronounced in the lower register. Mr. Crooks sang the lower notes successfully by effectively employing a greatly decreased volume. The familiar and beautiful "Songs My Mother Taught Me" of Dvorak was given as an encore.

The full power and richness of the singer's voice were displayed in the group of arias. The first of these was Una furtiva lagrima, from Donizetti's "L'Elisir d'Amore," the other, from "Fedora" of Giordano was Amo ti vieta. In this latter number Mr. Crooks showed the great power and volume of his voice without forcing and without distortion. The effect following the notably quiet music of the preceding numbers, was a revelation to those unacquainted with the singer's full powers. The Duke's song from "Rigoletto," given as an encore was well received.

The songs of concluding group brought most enthusiastic applause probably because they were modern and familiar, and also probably because they were sung by a tenor of operatic capacity, but with the rare distinction of having been born to the English language.

Included in the group were "Ah Moon of My Delight," from "In a Persian Garden"; "The Green Hills of Ireland" and "Song of Songs." Two encores followed these: "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "Beloved, It Is Morn."

Excellent accompaniment was afforded throughout by Rudolph Gruen who also shared the program by presenting three solos as an interlude. They were the Rhapsody in G Major of Brahms, Chopin's Etude in F Major and the valse from Delibes' "Naila" in a brilliant arrangement by Dohnanyi. Mr. Gruen, who contributed much to the concert as an accompanist, was noticeably lacking in tonal brilliance in solo work. This was compensated for by speed and technical accuracy particularly noted in the difficult parts of the "Naila" number.

Indian Missionary to Speak at Methodist Church

A very interesting service will be held at the Narberth Methodist Episcopal Church on Sunday evening at 7:45. Henry Moses, of Rajamundry, India, will be the speaker. Mr. Moses is studying in a Philadelphia Seminary and will return to India to work among his own people.

A pageant, "The Challenge of the Cross," by some of the members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, will also be given. Come and bring your thank offering and help with this great work of the Missionary Society.

Miss MacKeag, who had been ill for several months, died early last Thursday morning. She was at one time assistant buyer of the Glove Department of the Strawbridge and Clothier store in Philadelphia. She retired several years ago. Miss MacKeag was also a member of the quarter of a Century Club of the Strawbridge and Clothier store. She is survived by three sisters, Miss Anna MacKeag and Mrs. William B. Goodall, of Dudley Avenue, and Mrs. William J. Kirkpatrick, of Essex Avenue.

A group of three plays will be presented by students of the High School tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the High School Auditorium. It will be a contest for the Dramatic Trophy, which will be presented by George H. Gilbert immediately after the plays, when the judges have rendered their choice of the winner. Civil War Veteran Passes on Monday

Services for Thomas G. Hall Held Thursday at Borough Home.

WAS 97 YEARS OF AGE

The ranks of the surviving Civil War veterans on the Main Line were reduced this week by the death of Thomas G. Hall on Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Carl Greyer, of 306 Essex Avenue, Narberth. He would have been 98 years old on June 5.

Funeral services were held at 2 P. M. Thursday at the home of his daughter. They were in charge of the Rev. Samuel MacAdams, pastor of the Narberth Methodist Episcopal Church.

Born in Bath, England, Mr. Hall came to this country as a boy in his teens. He was 32 at the end of the Civil War.

He was formerly a resident of Jersey City, where he was engaged in the contracting business. He had been retired from business for fifty years.

Mr. Hall was a prominent Odd Fellow for sixty-one years and was a member of the Van Houghton Post, I. A. R., of Jersey City. He had been a resident of Narberth for the past eighteen years.

In addition to Mrs. Greyer, Mr. Hall is survived by another daughter, Mrs. John F. Hauck, of Point Pleasant, N. J.

GENE DAVIS

of Forest Avenue, Narberth, with his 43 3/4-pound kingfish, caught in the Gulf Stream of Miami recently. The fish is believed to be the largest caught there this season. The heft of the fish can be judged from the manner in which Gene had to brace his arm.

Certain Opinions

Quite a fuss is being made because stonecutters carved a few small mistakes into the walls of Philadelphia's new five-million-dollar Convention Hall. The errata include such items as three Great Lakes instead of the five we read about in the geography books, and the placing of Greenland closer to Alaska than a New York magistrate's office is to a speakeasy. Another minor mistake was in spelling Tchaikowsky's name "Stakowski." All are excusable; the geographical blunders for art's ask, the spelling in the interest of brevity. Really the artist's interpretation of North America as it appears on the walls of the hall is far more pleasing to the eye than the map in the atlas. No doubt the erection of the building is being supervised by the same persons who made the Sesqui-Centennial the success it was in 1926.

The foregoing recalls an anecdote, the source of which I do not recall.

An inquisitive young man asked a sign-painter at work why it was he placed the apostrophe in "doesn't" between the "e" and "s" rather than just before the "t."

"Because it looks better," replied the worker. "I always aim to get it as near the middle as I can. It makes it more art-like. And what was it you called it?"

"An apostrophe."

"Posafree, huh? That's a good one. Hey, Bill, here's a new name for our arrow. It's a 'posafree.' We'll have to remember that one to tell the boys."

Senator Nye has decided that the expenditures in last year's Pennsylvania Republican primary, while "inimical to the public interest," do not reflect on the integrity of Senator Davis. This is mighty kind of him and no doubt is appreciated by Jim. It is so different from the usual statement of the Senate's Chief Investigator that a suspicion is growing that Mr. Nye is slipping. However, as long as he can keep his probes on the first pages his constituents ought to re-elect him. For somewhere in the story he is sure to be referred to as the North Dakota Senator. And North Dakota isn't any California or Florida when it comes to space grabbing.

About the only two unstandardized distinctions left to Pennsylvania are high-priced elections and quiet Sundays. A few more years of Senator Nye and Athletics' world champion baseball teams and e'en these will be gone from our midst.

Latest to be excavated from the Wickersham report is that New Jersey is the wettest State. Let's see, just what was last year's total revenue from tolls on the Delaware River bridge?

Employees of the former New York Worlds (both) are still scouting around for capital to start a new paper, but they probably will neither get it nor do it. The sigh in newspaper offices, on hearing that Scripps-Howard had bought out the Pulitzers, was almost nationwide. The World (morning in particular) was the newspaperman's idea of the ultimate in proximity to perfection in journalism. Nearly all of them had the futile ambition to work on The World. Politics (Democratic) and lack of growth in circulation were of little import. Naturally newspaperdom's Grand Opera, with its galaxy of literary stars, would not have overwhelming appeal to the type of mind that reads the pictures and maybe a "confession" or so. But there, unfortunately, the simile ends. Yearly subscriptions to the opera and to The World were not in the same relative proportion.

Apparently the intelligentsia ratio on the Main Line is small. Manager Davis of the water company reports the average daily consumption per person is 61 gallons.—E. L. P.

Spare the Trees!

The public sentiment which has been aroused by the circulation of petitions in the township urging the preservation of the trees along the unimproved portions of Gulph Road in Bryn Mawr gives striking evidence of the feeling of the residents for the natural beauty of the section.

Part of the road in question, from Montgomery Avenue to Fishers Road, is not on the township's highway program for this year, so that fears for the trees that line it may be groundless. The matter, however, is one which affects the whole of the township since road improvements, in the way of resurfacing streets, widening and laying of new curbing is going on continually in one section or another.

It would seem that improvements could be made, streets widened, etc., without cutting down trees which constitute an unreplaceable asset to a suburban community. When Montgomery Avenue was widened in the summer of 1928, sidewalks were so laid that often they went around trees which otherwise would have been removed. This method should be followed wherever possible.

The present controversy calls to mind the necessity for the creation of a Shade Tree Commission for Lower Merion to have jurisdiction over all trees along roadways and on public lands.

Such a body should work in conjunction with the Highway Department. When highway improvements are contemplated which involve widening of an existing roadway, it should be consulted and should have final authority in the matter of removal of trees.

Such a body is also necessary to keep the trees along public streets in the best possible condition, to act in an advisory capacity in the matter of planting trees in new developments, and to regulate the pruning of trees along the roadside by utility companies.

Residents of the Main Line are primarily interested in the section as a charming place to live. The removal of trees, straightening of winding roads, and creation of speedways is not the way to enhance the community's natural advantages.

No Cause for Alarm

The report of the chemist of the Lower Merion Board of Health at the meeting of that body on Monday night showed that Springfield water, which is served Main Line residents, is not quite up to the high standards usually maintained.

If there was any serious danger the Board would lose no time in letting the public know of the condition and advise citizens of what precautions to take.

Elaborate precautions, including daily tests in its own laboratories, are conducted by the Philadelphia Suburban Water Company to maintain the quality of its product. Serving forty-nine municipalities in the suburbs, the Water Company has a fine reputation for good water and will not consciously jeopardize it.

Again in the Lists

The decision of the Lower Merion School authorities permitting the basketball team to enter the State tournament, in which they were runners-up last year, is one that meets with universal acclaim.

The record of the team, with fifteen straight victories, and but one defeat, and that in its opening game of the season, is an enviable one and well worthy of the school and its athletic traditions.

So the Maroon team, with its third suburban league title tucked safely away, will begin the pursuit of the State championship next Saturday night with the best wishes of the entire Main Line.

More power to you, Lower Merion.

At Our Door

The first robin is reported by someone or other nearly every day beginning with January 1. Unfortunately, enough of our summer birds brave the winters to confuse us when we try to use them as an index to the seasons.

But when the first of March arrives, signs and portents take on a real significance. During the past week the yards and trees have seen the return of flocks of purple grackles. Robins, meadow larks, doves and other early arrivals are appearing in small numbers. Sweet peas can be planted on the 17th, so spring is at our door.

Main Lines

The great Mary Wigman—pronounced Vigman as in Wagner—danced before the students of Bryn Mawr College (and as many of the public who wished to spend $3 for the privilege) and completely conquered the entire audience. Sophisticated and knowledge-surfited undergraduates applauded loudly—even wildly. This is in itself a great tribute, for enthusiasm seems to have fled from the self-sufficient soul of the average Bryn Mawr student.

Brightest spot in the dance recital (to imitate our better, "Time"), when an elderly, austere gentleman turned in the middle of an emotional dance to his equally elderly and austere wife and remarked: "Why the woman has no corsets on." Titters were heard from four surrounding rows of spectators.

A widely known young Main Line musician talking of the effect that Mary Wigman had had upon her said that the German choreographer made her want to "shriek and not utter a nice shriek at that."

Incidentally, the advent of Mary to the Main Line added a new word to our vocabulary—choreographer. Two Greek words are responsible for it—one meaning dance and the other writing. By the way, it is closely related to the word chorea, which is just another way of saying St. Vitus' dance. Not that we imply anything by the relative connotations.

There are always certain and sure signs of spring. The Main Line knows that warm weather is knocking at its door, that violets are beginning to waken and stir under the warming influence of a balmy sun, when a very old lady with her accoutrement under her coat begins to make her appearance. Last week she made her official appearance in Ardmore. Early on Friday morning she was seen getting off the Philadelphia and Western train her heavy instrument balanced on her right hip and a blue-checked apron with capacious and sturdily stitched pockets to hold the pennies and nickels that came her way.

Late that afternoon she wended her way back to the city on the few minutes after five train. Utter exhaustion showed in every line of her face. One weary arm leaned on the window sill, slowly the white head drooped forward. Then a wrinkled and knotted hand crept to the apron pocket, there was a faint jingle of coins; reassured the old lady slept.

The writer has had several inquiries lately from young men and women eager to enter the profession of journalism. In fact, a Main Line School of Journalism has been under discussion for the past few weeks. Organization has not gone beyond the discussion stage, but several courses have been tentatively outlined as follows: How to Lie Convincingly to the City Editor, How to Make Out an Expense Account That Will Be O. K'd, How to Cover a Fire in Malvern From the Ardmore Police Station, How to Scare Policemen, etc.

The faculty will be composed of experienced newspapermen. There will be day and evening courses. In fact, the school will be open sixteen hours a day in order that the students may feel like real reporters. It is said the fee for the course, to be completed in one year, will be $1000, divided as follows: $50 for the course of study, $950 for the invaluable secret word of advice given each student upon graduation.

We should not give away the secret, but we have it on good authority that the advice will be: "Don't become a newspaperman."

We Deliver

By ROBERT J. EDGAR

Sowing seeds indoors, to get an early start on the garden, is a thrilling and exacting procedure. In these days of thrift, when many plants are wanted and our garden budgets are small, patience and care will be rewarded if we provide the proper conditions.

Soil for seeds may be mixed by using one part garden loam, one part sand and two parts of fine leaf soil or commercial humus, finely screened peat moss may be substituted for the latter. These materials should be well mixed and screened; fertilizers are not to be used in the mixture.

Earthen bulb pans four inches or five inches in diameter and three inches deep are best. They can be conveniently moistened by setting the pots in shallow water and moistening from the bottom up, instead of washing the seeds out by watering on top. Less damping-off-fungus will result with this method. Seeds of Petunias and Snapdragons are very fine and are barely pressed into the surface of the soil. Sow seeds only twice their depth.

A greenhouse is ideal, a sun-porch is second choice, the hot-bed third and a sunny window the next best. The very heat that fools the seeds into believing that summer is here will of course dry out the soil so that daily examination and watering will be found necessary.

Constant moisture with heat and darkness are the only requirements for the seeds until they break through. This can be accomplished by covering the pots with a piece of slate or with paper and glass. The young seedlings will want moisture with heat and ventilation. Moist atmosphere is best for plants in any stage.

Flower pots or cigar boxes may be used but the shallow pots are a lasting investment. For sheer adventure try seeds of dahlias or hardy chrysanthemums. No telling exactly what color they will be, but they will flower in late summer and the better tubers or plants can be saved.

Rock gardeners may raise many plants from seed. The cold frame is probably best for perennial seeds, but a selection may be made from the following—Arabis (single only), Armeria Formosa, Alyssum Saxatile Silver Queen, Aubrietia Hybrids, Campanula Carpatica (blue or white), Dianthus Caesius, Helianthemum (Rock Rose), Primula Auricula, Primula Vulgaris, Saponaria Ocymoides, Tunica Saxifraga and Violas. All of these, excepting the Primulas and Violas, can be used in the dry wall, which, by the bye, is a form of gardening too seldom seen.

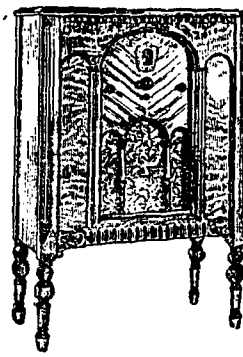

Only two more weeks of winter—which reminds us that about mid-March is the time to go over the lawn with a heavy roller to press back the sod that has been heaved by frost. The water ballast type of roller is most convenient.

Pruning. Here is a subject: When in doubt, don't prune. Shrubs should be pruned after they have flowered. In springtime, when the leaves are off and the handy man does not know one shrub from another, it is safer to wait.

Climbing and pillar roses should not be pruned in spring. If they must be cut do not cut any green stems—these are the flowering canes of the coming summer. Prune climbing roses after flowering—July or August is the time.

Keep the mulch on the rock garden on perennial beds, and keep the cover on rose beds. They need protection from the sun at this season. This is also the season when boxwood is likely to be burned with warm sun and frozen soil.

Evergreen sprays are to be applied in early April, when the weather is mild and before spring growth starts. The column will keep you posted.

Coffee

There is no doubt that there are many advantages in Casserole cooking, as it has been proved that most of a dinner can be cooked at one time in these handy earthenware containers. They are also labor savers as they save much dish washing. We have been requested for several recipes which we are giving to you this week.

Casserole of Ham and Vegetables

1 cupful of drained peas.
2 cupfuls of diced cooked ham.
1½ cupfuls of scalded milk.
1 cupful of soft bread crumbs.
¼ cupful of melted butter.
2 pimentos chopped.
1 tablespoonful of chopped parsley.
1½ tablespoonfuls of chopped onion.
1 cupful of grated American cheese, grated.
¾ teaspoonful of salt.
⅛ teaspoonful of pepper.
Dash of paprika.
3 eggs.

Pour scalding milk over bread crumbs, add the butter, pimentos, onion, parsley, grated cheese and seasonings. Add well-beaten eggs. Put ham and peas in the buttered casserole and pour the milk and cheese mixture over them. Bake about 50 minutes 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

Casserole of Green Peas and Asparagus

Cut six slices of bacon in small pieces and brown in skillet. Prepare two cupfuls of well-seasoned thin white sauce. In a greased casserole, arrange in alternate layers, one and a half cupfuls of fresh, cooked asparagus (one bunch), cut in pieces and one and a half cupfuls of fresh cooked peas. Add the browned bacon and two table-spoons of bacon to the white sauce and pour it over the vegetables. Cover the top with seasoned mashed potatoes and bake for twenty minutes at 400 degrees Fahrenheit. Serves six.

Steak en Casserole

3 tablespoons of butter or other fat
3 tablespoons of flour.
2 cups of stock.
Salt.
Parsley.
Pepper.
Turnip balls.

Carrot balls.

Potato balls.

Small onions.

2 pounds of 1½-inch steak.

Make a brown sauce of the fat, flour, stock and seasoning. Add balls of turnip, carrot, potato and onions, which have been previously cooked in a little brown stock until tender. For each person allow half a dozen little balls of each of these vegetables and two small onions. Keep this sauce hot while you pan-broil the steak until half done, then transfer to heated casserole, pour the vegetables over the steak, also the sauce, cover and place in oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until sufficiently cooked. When ready to serve, sprinkle the steak with finely chopped parsley.

Rhubarb Meringue Pie

5 to 8 stalks of rhubarb.
Flour.
1 cup of sugar.
¼ cup of water.
2 egg whites.
1 tablespoon of powdered sugar for meringue.
Line pie pan with plain paste. Cut into pieces sufficient rhubarb to fill the pan, and sprinkle with flour until each piece is quite white. Place the rhubarb in the pie-pan, adding one cup of sugar and very little water. Bake slowly, when done spread over the top the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs into which has been folded one tablespoonful of sugar. Return to oven and brown lightly.

Prune Pie

1 cup of cooked and pitted prunes
1 lemon, juice and grated rind.
1 cup of water or juice.
1 tablespoon flour.
½ cup of sugar.
2 tablespoons butter.
Cook the prunes with the other ingredients until slightly thickened. Add a little cinnamon or nutmeg if desired. Bake between two crusts. Shredded coconut may be added to the filling for variation. Prune pie is delicious served with ice cream or whipped cream. This amount makes a small pie.

Golden Cake

¼ cup of butter or shortening.
½ cup of sugar.
3 egg yolks.
1 cup of flour.
2 teaspoons of baking powder.
¼ cup of milk.
1 teaspoon of orange extract.
Cream the butter or shortening and add the sugar gradually. Beat the yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add to the first mixture alternately with the milk. Flavor. Bake as a loaf or layer cake, in a moderate oven (380 degrees Fahrenheit) for forty-five minutes. Use whatever kind of icing you prefer.

More service and more varied lines of merchandise will reward residents of this community more and more as they give local business folk more trade and more encouragement.

Home, Sweet Home

This building serves the double duty of Narberth station and living quarters. Borough residents, aware of the fact that it is the busiest station on the Main Line, are getting increasingly annoyed at its inadequacy.

Officer Ryder Is One of Department's Veterans

By ROBERT M. CAMERON

Officer Edward Ryder, one of the veterans of the Lower Merion Police Department, was born in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia May 21, 1875.

In 1903 he moved to Ardmore, where he was in the employ of the Autocar Company until 1913.

His connection with the force began when he was thirty-eight years old, on May 1, 1913, under the late Captain Donaghy. The advice of Captain Donaghy at the time of his appointment has remained with Officer Ryder ever since.

Said Captain Donaghy to the recruit: "Always try the nice and gentlemanly way first, and if that fails, our duty as police officers is to bring our prisoners to justice. But I find if we use people with courtesy and respect we come out victorious."

This counsel Officer Ryder has tested with satisfactory results on many occasions in the past seventeen years of his work as a policeman.

"I have been in some very peculiar circumstances and shooting matches," said Mr. Ryder, "and by following the advice of Captain Donaghy, I have usually managed to come out victorious."

He told of one "shooting match" on West Spring Avenue, where one man was shot to death, but with the aid of some other officers, he succeeded in bringing the seven participants to justice.

In another shooting match on Cricket Avenue, Officer Ryder, with the aid of a brother officer, was successful in effecting the arrest of the disturbers of the peace.

"Do unto others as you would be done by," is what Officer Ryder endeavors to practice as a police officer. By doing his duty, insofar as he knows it, Officer Ryder is certain of the support of the Board of Commissioners, whom he holds in high esteem, and of his superior officers.

Officer Ryder, who is married and has six children, lives at 18 West Spring Avenue, Ardmore. He is assigned to the Wynnewood beat.

Christian Science Topic

"Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon to be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, March 8. The Golden Text is, "The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord: and he delighteth in his way" (Psalms 37:23).

Among the citations from the Bible is the following: "I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded. I have raised him up in righteousness, and I will direct all his ways" (Isaiah 45:12, 13).

The John Roberts Plantation

as it appears on the 1851 map of Montgomery County. 1—the Roberts house of 1771; 2—the old grist mill—in 1851 a brass foundry; 3—the paper mill—in 1851 a cotton mill; 4 to 5—the Montgomery School—Magee Farm boundary.

The 1682 Plantation of Penn Valley Comprised Part of Present Community

From the Penn Valley News

The land adjacent to Mill Creek, Gulf Road, Righter's Mill Road and McClenachan's Mill Road is almost as wild and primitive today as it was in 1690 when the Haverford Meeting made a tax of one shilling per 100 acres toward the taking of "woolives."

Before the coming of Penn and the Welsh Friends to Pennsylvania, the Swedes had established trading settlements on the Delaware and Schuylkill Rivers. They carried on a considerable fur trade with the Indians. Beaver pelts were the principal product of the streams flowing into the rivers; such creeks as Mill and Gulley Run were the breeding places of the beaver.

On September 15, 1681, William Penn sold to John and Thomas Wynn 5000 acres of land in Pennsylvania for 100 Pounds Sterling. On May 5, 1682, they sold 500 acres for 10 Pounds to John Roberts, of Wales; about 380 acres of this purchase is the plantation we shall discuss.

John Roberts, millwright, settled in Merion in 1682 and erected (about 1690) the first grist mill in what is now Montgomery County. He named it the "Wayn Mills." The site of the first mill is on Gulf Road, about 300 yards below the tenth milestone. About 1690 he built a log cabin where Gulf Road and Ardmore Avenue meet. The house now there is marked 1690, but it has been modernized.

In 1690 he married Elizabeth Owen, aged 16 years.

John Roberts died in 1704, leaving three children. One, John, 2d, on coming of age, fell heir to the dwelling house, plantation, mill and adjoining land.

In 1690 the bed of Gulf Road was a pathway for man or horse, a "line of communication" between Old Lancaster Avenue and Gulf Mills. The settlers from Upper Merion delivered their grain over the Gulf Road to the mill; it was then ground and carried to Philadelphia.

John, 2d, died in 1721, aged less than 26 years. His son, John Roberts, 3d, in 1743 obtained a patent for his father's estate on Mill Creek. Here he built, in 1746, a stone grist mill, probably replacing the older building.

west over the Mill Creek and present Gulf Road; from there southeast along the properties owned by Robeson and McClenachan, to Joseph Ott lot; then east to place of beginning.

On the 1851 map we have drawn arrows to show the old landmarks. No. 1 is the John Roberts log cabin; No. 2 the site of the 1690 grist mill, and No. 3 the Roberts-McClenachan-Walover paper mill added to in 1848 and still standing. Line marked 4 to 5 is the Montgomery School, Magee farm boundary. The Mary Penn Gaskill land is now the Montgomery School and the M. and A. McClenachan land is now owned by J. M. Anderson.

Holmes Map of About 1688

The John Roberts purchase is the square in the centre. The figures marked on the map indicate locations as follows: 4 is the 1690 grist mill; 5 the 1758 paper mill; 1 W. H. Pfeffer's present residence; 2 D. A. Newhall's home; 3 W. D. Fuller's new home on Righters Mill Road.

As early as 1758 he built a paper mill, where the old mill now stands on the J. Crosby Brown property on Mill Creek. Just before the Revolution he built a stone dwelling on the Gulf Road between Ardmore Avenue and the old mill. The house is still standing and bears the date stone "J. J. R., 1771."

After the death of John Roberts, 3d, the plantation passed through several hands, and on May 19, 1797, was sold to George McClenachan. From our 1688 and 1851 reproduction of the Roberts-McClenachan land we can give the exact boundaries of this tract as it is today. It was bounded by Righter's Mill Road on the east; then a straight line north along the property on the 1851 map marked Evan Jones, now owned by J. Crosby Brown; then chan land is now owned by J. M. Anderson.

Sells Ton of Sugar

Does advertising pay? Howard Cotter's experience last Saturday was that it does.

Cotter's Market advertisement in "Our Town" last week included in its money-saving weekly specials a price of 39 cents for a 10-pound bag of sugar, effective Saturday only, and limited to one bag per customer.

Before the day had ended, 200 orders were placed and delivered, for a total of 2000 pounds of sugar. Mr. Cotter did not make money on that sugar—far from it—but he can tell you that sugar was not the only item purchased on those 200 orders—far from it!

Engaged

MISS ELIZABETH S. TOMILSON daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Tomilson, of 322 Merion Avenue, Narberth, whose engagement to Mr. Robert Joseph Thomas, son of Mrs. Regina Thomas, of 109 Upland Terrace, Bala-Cynwyd, is announced.

Foreign Students Speak at Narberth Junior Club

Thursday evening, February 26, brought two very charming and highly interesting speakers to the Narberth Junior Community Club meeting, held at the Club Room in Elm Hall, Narberth. They were two foreign students enrolled for post-graduate work this year at Bryn Mawr College—a girl graduated from the University of Amsterdam and a girl from the University of Paris. The girl from Holland, Miss Diedericka Liesveld, was garbed in a costume native to some sections of Holland, and the girl from France, Miss Odette Thireau, while she wore clothes of American design, brought a pleasing French accent which proclaimed her a true daughter of Paris.

Miss Liesveld spoke very informally but very delightfully about her native land, and one could judge from her enthusiastic description of scenery and customs, characteristics and politics, just how dear to her this "doll's country," as she called it, was. Miss Thireau spoke very briefly about her country's desire and plans for peace, which Monsieur Briand, she said, was striving hard to bring about, in the face of a difficult geographical position which kept their country in constant anticipation of danger. Other honor guests of the evening were the Bala-Cynwyd and the Ardmore Junior Clubs, also Mrs. Horace McConnell, of Narberth, who is junior county chairman, and spoke for a short while with her usual charm and witicism. Mrs. Arthur Cooke and Miss Martha Maxwell led a large corps of hostesses in serving refreshments.

Next Thursday, March 12, the club will hold a girl scout meeting, to which the local troops have been asked. Mrs. David L. Phillips, a prominent executive of the Scouts in Philadelphia. The hostesses for that occasion will be Miss Louise England, Miss Margaret Livingston, Mrs. John Albrecht and Mrs. Conrad Albrecht.

Methodist Church Supper

The committee in charge of the dinner to be held at the Narberth Methodist Episcopal Church, on Essex Avenue, on Friday, March 13, calls attention to the fact that reservations may be made in advance by all those desiring to attend. They may be had from Mrs. Lawrence N. Wight, Cynwyd 625-R, or Mrs. Howard White, Narberth 4036-W. Dinner will be served promptly at 6:15 P. M.

Washington Woman to Speak at Tribute House

Miss Janet Richards, of Washington, D. C., will be the speaker at a special meeting which will be held on Wednesday, March 11, at the Merion Tribute House at 2:30 P. M. Her subject will be Patriotic Public Questions. Miss Richards, who has been a resident of Washington for some time, will also speak on the Federal Government, which she has studied for some time. The proceeds of the meeting will be used for patriotic pictures and talks for the benefit of public.

Tickets may be obtained at the door or from the following members of the committee in charge, of which Mrs. Edwin C. Town is the chairman: Mrs. John C. Nash, Wynnedale Road, Narberth 3844; Mrs. James G. Roberts, of Merion, Merion 1427; Mrs. E. C. Griswold, of Chestnut Avenue, Narberth 4095-J, and Mrs. W. R. O'Sullivan, of Windsor Avenue, Narberth 3831.

Please let "Our Town" have your news early—preferably on Monday or Tuesday.

Original Bala-Cynwyd P. O.
Was Part of Store Run by Uncle of Postmaster Now

Premature but expressive of best wishes is a basket of flowers placed in the Bala-Cynwyd Post Office this week, by the clerks and carriers. It marks the ninth anniversary of Joseph F. Dolan, Jr., as postmaster for Bala-Cynwyd, the tenth anniversary of his connection with the post office at Cynwyd, and the twenty-first anniversary of Miss Martha Lukens as clerk at the Cynwyd Post Office.

So long have Mr. Dolan and Miss Lukens served that the employees thought their anniversary was the first of March, instead of the first of May. It was in April, 1921, that the Bala and Cynwyd Post Offices were combined, and until April 30, 1922, Mr. Dolan, who had been postmaster in Bala, served in Cynwyd under Charles Hansell, the Cynwyd postmaster. On May 1, 1922, Mr. Hansell's term expired, and Mr. Dolan took charge.

Now a second-class post office, Bala-Cynwyd was years ago a fourth-class one. Mr. Dolan can remember when his uncle, James E. Dolan, was one-man post office clerical and delivery force combined. History of the office is interesting:

Nearly forty years ago the Academy Post Office was conducted by James Dolan in the general store, now occupied by the Crossways Gift Shop, on Montgomery Pike west of Old Lancaster Road. Following Mr. Dolan was Elwood H. Lukens, under whose regime both the store and post office expanded. At that time Merionville was the largest village in Lower Merion, outside of Ardmore. Mr. Lukens was the last postmaster there. The section northeast of what is now Montgomery Pike and Old Lancaster Road's corner, was at that time renowned for the Lower Merion Academy, founded 1812, and still standing, on Academy Road, just behind the Cynwyd Public School.

Bala's first postmaster was John J. Riddle, ticket agent at the Bala Station, who was retired January 31 of this year by the Pennsylvania Railroad, after having served at Bala for forty-six years and two months.

Mrs. Joseph J. Skelton was the first Cynwyd postmistress. Charles Hansell followed her in 1913, and served for eight years. He is now a proprietor of Hansell Brothers' automobile service station on Montgomery Pike, Narberth.

When his term expired, the present postmaster took charge of the combined Bala-Cynwyd Post Office.

services, which are now in their second year, are held approximately once a month during the winter season and are arranged by a non-sectarian committee. They have been held this winter in the Methodist Church because the facilities of that new and excellent auditorium are the best for that purpose in Narberth.

The music for the service last Sunday evening was furnished by the quartette of the Baptist Church. Miss Dorothy Wire, organist. In addition the vested choir of the Methodist Church sat in the rear of the chancel and led in the congregational singing.

Rev. Samuel MacAdams, the Methodist pastor, offered the invocation. Rev. Robert E. Keighton, of the Baptist Church, read the Psalter and the scripture reading and prayer were assigned to Rev. Cletus A. Sest, of the Lutheran Church. Dr. Fineshriber was introduced by Mr. Keighton.

Space does not permit any attempt to reproduce Dr. Fineshriber's address, and it would be impossible anyway to convey here the strength, dignity, unusual charm and serenity of that speaker. The theme of his address was the feast of Purim which the Jews have observed this week and which is their memorial and celebration of their deliverance by Queen Esther. He explained that the destruction which threatened the Jews then was due to prejudice and a failure on the part of other races to understand them. His address was in no sense a plea or a defense for the Jews, but it was a broad and inspiring development of the theme of human brotherhood and tolerance.

Lower Merion to Play for State Title

School Authorities Grant Team Permission to Participate Again in State Tourney

Objectionable Features of Last Year's Series Have Been Ironed Out.

START NEXT SATURDAY

By ROBERT McNALLY

The Lower Merion School authorities have decided to permit the championship basketball team which sports the Maroon and White to enter the State tournament again this year. There has been considerable doubt as to whether they would have the opportunity to go into the play-offs this season, due to a School Board ruling and to the objectionable features which were present last year.

The friction caused last year was due to inadequate gymnasium facilities for the games, poor management in arranging the games at definite places far enough ahead for the schools to make proper arrangements for the contests, and other minor matters. These objections have been ironed out this year, and Superintendent S. E. Downs has granted the team permission to enter the contests.

Mr. Downs' statement reads:

"For several weeks there has been considerable discussion relative to the advisability of permitting the basketball team to represent this district in the State tournament. Many of the features found so objectionable last year have been removed, at least in part.

"Our regular schedule was shorter and not so strenuous as that of last year and it was further reduced by the abandonment of the Pennsylvania tournament.

"The team is in good physical condition, the average scholastic work to date is creditable and neither the boys nor the other students have been handicapped by the tension of impending contests or through diversion of interest from more important work.

"At least a part of the friction, due to poor planning for contests and non-selection of certain adequate gymnasiums in ample time, has been avoided.

"The scheduling of the early contests at the week-ends and immediately preceding our Schoolmen's Week vacation removes other objections which were valid last year.

"The boys of the team have earned the right to represent Suburban Philadelphia and we hope that they may advance one game nearer the championship than did Lower Merion's representatives last year."

Lower Merion's first game in quest of the State title will be with Palmerton, of the Lehigh League, at Allentown on Saturday, March 14. This is the same team that Lower Merion met and defeated last year.

If successful in this contest, the Maroon will face Allentown in the Lafayette College gym at Easton the following Wednesday night.

'TIME OUT'

By TOMMY MACKLIN

It has been a bad two weeks for the Maroon basketball team. Captain James Turner has been wearing a rabbit's foot on his Paris garter, and sleeping with a horseshoe under his pillow. All of that, of course, in the hopes that Lady Luck would spill the permission for the team to enter the State tournament.

Hugh Wynn has been walking around with a dreamy look in his eye, and the other members of the team, particularly John Pennypacker, have been crying the blues about hard luck in general, and their hard luck in particular.

But all of that is over now. Superintendent S. E. Downs has decided that it is the best thing to do to permit the boys to participate in the popular post-season games. The boys are walking in the clouds, and something tells me that Radnor should be in for a tough time Thursday night (last night).

The first game in the State tournament will be at Allentown in the new gymnasium next Saturday night, the 14th. The opponents of the Maroon team will be Palmerton, of the Lehigh League. Lower Merion met the same team last year in the first game and was victorious by a comfortable margin.

If the team is lucky enough to win the first game they will meet Allentown at Lafayette College the following Wednesday night. Allentown is strong again this year and will give Lower Merion plenty of opposition. It looks to me as if the test of the tour-namment will come in that second game

The Lower Merion team is in good physical condition and should reach the peak of the season in the tournament. Eaton is the only one who has had a heavy load to carry. He was rushed into the center position in Turner's place when the latter was ill for a couple of weeks. Unused to the position, Eaton became tired for a stretch, but he has regained his vitality and efficiency.

This fact was very much in evidence at Penn Tuesday night, when Bill Anderson's team met the strong freshman team coached by Bill Leopold in a practice scrimmage. Andy's boys gave the college men a lesson in how basketball should be played. The scoring ended something like 38 to 18 for the Maroon, and it was Johnny Eaton who rambled all over the floor doing things with the ball that the Penn boys had never seen and seldom read about.

Get your tickets for the game at Allentown for March 14.

L. M. Junior High Five Clinches League Title

Coach L. B. Fowler's Lower Merion Junior High basketball team completed their schedule last Friday afternoon by downing Upper Darby Junior High in the final league game on the former's floor. This victory clinched the Suburban League championship for the locals with a record of seven victories and one defeat. The season's record is sixteen victories and three defeats.

Fowler takes his team to Lancaster tonight for a post-season game with the West End Junior High. Twelve players will make the trip in cars, the team returning after the game.

Please let "Our Town" have your news early—preferably on Monday or Tuesday.

L. M. Finishes League Games Without Defeat

Haverford High Bows, 31-16, on South Ardmore Floor.

Lower Merion defeated Haverford High, 31-16, last Friday night and in doing so completed the league schedule without sustaining a defeat. The game, played on the immense floor at South Ardmore, was a hard-fought battle, and the fine work of Anderson's entire team was responsible for the Maroon victory. Hughie Wynn furnished some sensational long distance shots, while Jim Bradford played his usual brilliant guarding game.

John Pennypacker got away for many baskets during the melee, and Eaton and Turner were very effective in their work near the basket.

McCahan and Gray looked best for the Cornogmen, and though McCahan dropped some sensational goals, it was done with split-second aim.

Anderson's team completes the regular season against Radnor Thursday night.

The High School reserve squad completed their schedule by winning the league championship for which a cup will be awarded by the league. Talley, Myers, Brubaker, Grace, Ramsey, Thomas and Reinhart were the outstanding players on the squad.

Inter-Ac Title Won

By Friends' Central

The basketball crown of the Inter-Academic League went to Friends' Central last Friday as a result of the Friends' 52-24 victory over Chestnut Hill Academy at St. Martin's. It marked the first triumph in years for the Overbrook School, last season's title being won by Episcopal Academy.
